

An Ecosystem to accelerate the transition toward quality education for all.

Our youth needs access to complementary education in order to flourish in a rapidly changing world. We are building that platform - one that offers high quality, impactful content, affordably and at scale on- and off-line.

Our Mission

Indaba is a Social Business with a mission to empower young people to be resilient, develop their full potential and serve the common good by developing a better educational system powered by world-class technological, collaborative and educational solutions accessible online and offline, affordable to the many.

Our focus is laser-sharp across three priority areas:

Early Childhood Development
Afterschool & Extracurricular Empowerment
Vocational & Regenerative Career Training.

Through these pillars, we create holistic pathways for young people to grow, explore, and thrive.

Founded by educators, activists, and systems changers.

Indaba is founded by community leaders and backed by investors who believe in the power of meaningful participation.

Years ago, while working on separate community projects across Africa and beyond, our founding team kept encountering the same problem: fragmented systems, siloed resources, and a lack of tools built for those doing the real work on the ground. Frustrated but inspired, they came together to design a new kind of platform — one that centers people, culture, and purpose.

Today, Indaba empowers communities through a unified ecosystem that supports education, collaboration, and regenerative action. From early childhood learning to vocational training, over 30,000 people across the globe engage with Indaba to reimagine what's possible — and to build it, together.
